ACOL is an electronic service delivery solution, designed, developed and operated by Unisys Canada in partnership with the Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland and Labrador, sponsored by the Council of Atlantic Premiers. ACOL was the first multi-jurisdictional electronic service in Canada, operating since November 1997.

Under the ACOL business and technology model, government retains ownership of information and shares with the private sector technology partner, Unisys, the revenues generated through on-line transaction fees. Services include: Personal Property Registries; Driver Insurance Abstract Service; and Lien Check.

The solution specialist role included: business case development, opportunity scoping, strategic marketing, client relationship management, contract management, and serving as trusted advisor to key stakeholders and officials.
